T-Shirt Policy

The safety of all guests using the City's swimming pool is the foremost concern of the Parks and Recreation Department. To that end we follow the most stringent safety guidelines for aquatic facilities as endorsed by the American Red Cross and the National Recreation and Park Association's National Aquatic Program. The City of Houston's policy prohibits the wearing of T-shirts in swimming pools unless an exemption letter has been accepted and filed in our Aquatics Office. Exemptions are granted based on medical and/or religious reasons, for the wearing of plain white T-shirts only.

Guests wearing T-shirts in pools are at a higher risk of drowning or being injured. The primary reasons for this risk are as follows:

Lifeguards are trained to scan zones while paying strict attention to detail. It is extremely important for the faces of guests to be clearly visible at all times whether they are submerged or not. T-shirts tend to "balloon up" thereby covering the face of the guest; thus, the lifeguard cannot see the guest's facial expressions, and sudden change of facial expressions is among the first signs of guests experiencing distress in swimming pools.

In addition, guests wearing T-shirts can be grabbed, either intentionally or inadvertently, causing possible strangulation. If this occurs while the guest is underwater, the guest will ingest some water (the beginning stage of drowning).

The reason for only allowing the use of plain white T-shirts (with no writing) as opposed to T-shirts with print or other colors is to avoid offending anyone with the various statements, pictures and phrases some people wear on their T-shirts. More importantly, colors are affiliated with gangs and gang activity and we want to avoid the kind of serious problems other municipalities have experienced at their pools with gangs. In addition, the dye in colored T-shirts causes the need to increase the amount of chemicals it normally takes to maintain water quality.

If guests have a medical condition that a physician deems necessary to wear protective clothing when exposed to direct sunlight or the guests' religious affiliations require cover, our staff will work with the guests to ensure their total comfort at our pools. With safety as our primary concern, we are confident that the precautions we take with the T-shirt policy are warranted to avoid the potential for danger to guests using the City's swimming pools.

Swim Wear Exemption

Guests with exemptions will be responsible for keeping their copy of approved form and presenting it at time of entrance to any facility operated by the City of Houston Aquatics Section.

Exemption letters must be completed by an adult (18 years or older).
